Boatrights and friends to give free Schubert concert.

DALLAS--Well-known Dallas musicians Harvey and Jo Boatright will join with members of the Highland Park Chamber Orchestra to present a "Schubertiad"--an all Schubert concert--at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas on Friday, March 7 at noon.

Jo Boatright gave her first piano performance at the age of 10, and by age 12 was soloing with orchestras in Colorado. A graduate of Colorado College and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, she is currently professor of piano at Texas Christian University. She has studied with Max Lanner, Miklos Schwalb, Alexander Uninsky and for the past six years has been special assistant to Madame Lili Kraus at TCU.

Harvey Boatright, flutist, began his studies at age nine in Colorado Springs. With a bachelor's (honors with distinction) and master's degrees from the New England Conservatory of Music, Harvey has been a flutist with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra for the past 19 years. When they are not playing with the Voices of Change (a Dallas ensemble started by Jo, dedicated to the performance of new music from all periods) Harvey and Jo comprise the Boatright Duo.

Other members of the upcoming Schubert concert include: violinist Ronald Neal, a Julliard graduate and Musical Director of the Highland Park Chamber Orchestra; violinist Jay Woehr, a former member of the London Symphony Orchestra of Ontario; cellist Craig Weaver, a former principal cellist of the Philadelphia Lyric and Grand Opera Companies; and contrabassist Joseph White, former principal bassist with the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra and seven-year co-bassist with the DSO. All are members of the Highland Park Chamber Orchestra.

Selections for the "Schubertiad" include Introduction and Variations on "Ihr Blumlein alle" and the Piano Quintet in A major, "The Trout."

This free concert will be given in Gooch Auditorium on the campus of the health science center, Friday, March 7 at noon. The concert is arranged by the UTHSCD Fine Arts Society.
