Foreword

On November 24, 1964, fourteen Dallas physicians met for lunch in the Vista Room of the Chaparral Club. This was the first organizational meeting of the Friends of the Medical Library of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School. Twelve practicing Dallas physicians and two invited faculty members from the school attended this meeting. Encouragement for the formation of such a group had already been received from the Librarian, Mrs. Violet Baird, and approval had been granted by the Dean, Dr. A. J. Gill, and by the Chancellor of the University, Dr. Harry H. Ransom.

The primary object of the society was to provide, by annual donations, a fund which could be used to purchase rare, unusual, or desirable items for the library which otherwise might not be procurable. The support of other library activities, such as the binding or publication of books, was considered to be within the scope of the organization. An additional object of the society was, by means of its contributions and its interest, to manifest the appreciation of the clinical faculty members for the many services provided for them by the medical library and its staff.

It was agreed that membership would be limited initially to selected physicians in the Dallas area, and that members of the full-time faculty of the medical school would not be eligible. However, it was stipulated that a faculty sponsor would be assigned to the group at all times. A list of prospective candidates for membership was compiled and letters of invitation were sent to these candidates. The period for the enrollment of charter members was extended to December 31, 1966. At the conclusion of this period our organization consisted of fifty-two members, exclusive of the librarian and the faculty sponsor. Since that time an occasional new member has been enrolled, a few members have moved away, and one of our group has been lost by death. Presently our membership remains at fifty. Our first faculty sponsor was Dr. Carleton B. Chapman, now Dean of Dartmouth Medical School. Upon his departure he was replaced by Dr. John Chapman, who continues in this capacity at the present time.

The acquisitions for which the Friends have been responsible fall into several categories, including books and manuscripts, documents, autographed letters, and graphic art. Books include Sir William Harvey's monumental work on circulation of the blood, Sir Ernest Rutherford on the discovery of radioactivity, John Collins Warren on the early use of ether, Sir Francis Galton on eugenics, Jacob Bigelow on medical botany, Sir John Pringle on ventilation, a number of early important manuscripts on yellow fever, and surgical works of Jean Louis Petit, Ambroise Pare, John Bell, Theodor Billroth, and William S. Halsted. Documents signed by Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, John S. "Rip" Ford, Ashbel Smith, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and John B. Connally have been obtained. The autographed letters that have been acquired are mostly written by hand and frequently accompanied by photographs of the authors. Included among these are letters from Harvey Cushing, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Lord Lister, Florence Nightingale, Louis Pasteur, Albert Schweitzer, Charles Darwin, Thomas Huxley, Luther Burbank, and Sir Humphrey Davy. Items acquired in the graphic arts include medical engravings and lithographs by Daumier, Rowlandson, Jacque and Cruikshank. A report listing and describing the acquisitions for the year has been distributed to the members annually since 1967.

It was our good fortune to obtain in 1967 a copy of George Cupples' "Report of the special committee on surgery presented at the annual meeting at Dallas, April 27, 1886". This attracted national and international attention. Prior to the publication of this report Texas was considered to be a surgical wilderness, but Dr. Cupples' statistics established the fact that the results of surgical procedures in Texas were comparable to those of medical centers throughout the world. To the best of our knowledge only two copies of this report are in existence. The other is in the library of the Texas Medical Association.

The volume for which this foreword serves as an introduction, a catalogue of Texas medical historical items in the library of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, represents the first venture by the Friends of the Medical Library into the field of book publication. It is especially appropriate that this initial effort should be devoted to a work by Violet M. Baird, since

Mrs. Baird has meant so much to the Friends. The activities of this group have been enhanced immeasurably by her participation and guidance.

Violet Mattson Baird received her B.A. degree from Rice Institute in 1931. She was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa while working her way through college. She subsequently received the M.A. degree from Rice and the B.S. in L.S. degree from Louisiana State University. After her graduation she worked as a reference librarian at Texas Technological College in Lubbock and as a serials librarian at Baylor University in Waco. She joined the staff of Southwestern Medical School in Dallas in 1943. She has now completed twenty-eight years with the Southwestern Medical School and with the University of Texas Southwestern Medical school, having served as Librarian from 1947 until 1971. During this period she has been responsible for the accumulation of notable historical collections, particularly in the medical history of Texas and in the national and southwestern literature concerning yellow fever. In 1971 she received the annual Murray Gottlieb Prize Essay Award for the best essay on medical history written by a medical librarian. Her subject was Nineteenth Century Medical Journalism in Texas. The Friends of the Medical Library acknowledge with gratitude the encouragement and support that they have received from Mrs. Baird. They are proud to publish this catalogue, which is a unique and significant contribution to Texas medical bibliography. To the best of our knowledge, this is the first library catalogue that has ever been devoted exclusively to a collection of books and other items relating to the medical history of Texas.

We are indebted to several individuals for their assistance in the preparation of this publication, and to others for their support of this organization. The distinctive format of this volume is a product of the creative genius of Mr. William R. Chiles in the field of typography and book design. Mr. Chiles is a member of the firm of Jaggars Chiles Stovall, Inc. in Dallas. We are grateful to Carl Hertzog of El Paso for suggestions and to Elinor Reinmiller of Dallas for proofreading. We wish to express our thanks also to our former and present faculty sponsors, Dr. Carleton B. Chapman and Dr. John S. Chapman, to the former Dean, Dr. Atticus J. Gill, and to the present Dean, Dr. Charles C. Sprague. During the past seven years we have received generous annual contributions from the Dallas and Mae Smith Foundation. Without their support, the publication of this volume and the acquisition of many of our most desirable items would not have been possible.

*Concerning
this Catalogue*

The Texas Medical History Collection brings together various types of published and unpublished materials with the purpose of providing a background for understanding the development of medicine in one particular part of the United States—Texas. It is not an accumulation of rare books or medical classics. Nor is it complete. It is what the user will find on the history of Texas medicine in one library—the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School Library. The collection contains representative histories, monographs, pamphlets, documents and manuscripts from all periods of Texas history—some in the original form—some in photocopy. Many titles are long out-of-print and unavailable in any Texas library. Some of them are good and should be better-known. Others, ephemeral and of fleeting significance, enjoyed popularity in their time, but seem trivial today. All of them belong to the Texas medical past and have been accepted as a part of the collection.

So far as is known, this is the first attempt to assemble, in one place, a working collection on the history of Texas medicine. We know that the user will find interesting information. We hope it will also be useful.

Prior to 1900*

Medical monographs and pamphlets by Texas physicians, published in or outside Texas before 1900, are extremely rare today. There were no medical libraries in the state to preserve the publications, and there was very little interest in medical history. For this reason it seems appropriate to list all titles from this period which are in the Texas collection, whether they are in the original form or in photocopy. It has taken time and patient searching to locate some of these titles in any form at all, so that they could be made available to the Texas medical historian.

- BORDEN, GAIL, JR. Letter of Gail Borden, Jr. to Dr. Ashbel 1801-1874 Smith, setting forth an important invention in the preparation of a new article of food, termed meat biscuit; and the reply of Dr. Smith thereto; being a letter addressed to the American Association for the Promotion of Science, at their semi-annual meeting, to be held at Charleston in March next. Printed by Gibson and Cherry, Galveston, Feb., 1850. 9p. Photocopy.
(Winkler, 135.)

Important in the history of concentrated food.

5

- BORDEN, GAIL, JR. The meat biscuit invented by Gail 1801-1874 Borden, Jr., Galveston, Texas. Patent secured 5th February 1850.

Advertising leaflet telling what the biscuit is,
and giving directions for cooking it.

See also Smith, Ashbel, no. 41.

epidemic of 1813.

7

CAMERON, JOHN Account books (4), dating from the 1826-1917 1850's through the 1880's.

From these much can be learned concerning one doctor's practice in Wheelock, in Central Texas, during a span of almost 40 years.

8

CARHART, JOHN WESLEY Norma Trist; or, Pure carbon: a story 1834-1914 of the inversion of the sexes. Austin, Tex., E. von Boeckmann, 1895. 253p.

Psychiatric fiction. The physician who wrote this story, one of the most versatile — and liberal — of the 19th century physicians, was arrested for sending pornographic materials through the mail.

CERNA, DAVID Notes on the newer remedies, their 1857-1953 therapeutic applications and modes of administration. 2d ed., enl. and rev.
Philadelphia, W. B. Saunders, 1895.
253p.

Dr. Cerna was a brilliant young Mexican who was Demonstrator of Physiology at the University of Texas Medical Branch at the time this second edition appeared. Dr. Cerna wrote on many subjects. Among other things he should be recognized as Texas' first medical historian.

IO

- CHASE, IRA CARLETON 1868-1933 A laboratory manual of medical chemistry; containing a systematic course of experiments in laboratory manipulation and chemical action, the non-metallic elements and the medicinal metals, quantitative processes applied to sanitary water analysis, medicinal organic compounds, proteids, digestion, blood, milk, urinalysis and toxicology. Ft. Worth, Texas, N. W. Underhill, 1897. 207p. Photocopy.

Intended for use by medical students at the Fort Worth Medical School.

II

- CLINE, ISAAC MONROE 1861-1955 The climate of Texas in relationship to the distribution of diseases and the effects of climate and weather changes in causing diseases and deaths. Galveston, Texas, Strickland printing co., 1894. [34]p. (From Special Bulletin No. 4, Texas Weather Service.)

By a member of the early faculty of the University of Texas Medical Branch. Dr. Cline, who was an Instructor in Climatology, forecast the disastrous Galveston hurricane of 1900. His last work, Storms, Floods and Sunshine . . . 3d ed. appeared in 1951.

I2

- COLEMAN, WILLIAM LUDLOW 1833-1904 A history of yellow fever; indisputable facts pertaining to its origin and cause; and its present artificially acquired habitat, with reasons going to show the possibility of its complete extinction from the globe, its nature, anatomical characteristics, symptoms, course and treatment with an addendum on its twin sister dengue, containing a parallel table of the most prominent symptoms of each disease. Houston, Texas, W. L. Coleman {1898}. 141 p. [Published by the Clinic Publishing Company, Chicago].

Dr. Walter Reed's work on yellow fever made such books as Dr. Coleman's completely obsolete. It is, however, interesting as one of many theories concerning the origin and development of a dreaded disease of the nineteenth century.

I3

- CUPPLES, GEORGE 1816-1895 14 pieces consisting of letters, bills, and receipts, relating to his medical practice in Castroville and San Antonio. Includes a letter from Henri Castro (1786-1865), the French impresario who founded Castroville, Texas, and who was a friend of George Cupples. See also nos. 45, 46.

I4

- DOWELL, GREENSVILLE 1822-1881 Original contributions to surgery, with inventions of instruments, and new operative procedures. A thesis, read before the medical examiners of the Texas Medical College for the professorship of surgery. N.p., n.d. (1870's) 12p. Photocopy. (Winkler & Friend 2539).

Written to present his qualifications as a candidate for professor in the newly-organized Texas Medical College in Galveston, Texas. The Texas Medical College had just replaced an earlier school, the Galveston Medical College.

I5

- DOWELL, GREENSVILLE 1822-1881 A treatise on hernia; with a new process for its radical cure, and original contributions to operative surgery, and new surgical instruments. Philadelphia, D. G. Brinton, 1876. 205p. Photocopy.

Particularly interesting because it describes the plight of a Southern surgeon in obtaining materials needed in his practice following the Civil War.

I6

- DOWELL, GREENSVILLE 1822-1881 Yellow fever and malarial diseases, embracing a history of the epidemics of yellow fever in Texas; new views on its diagnosis, treatment, propagation and control . . . Philadelphia, Medical Publications office, 1876. 244p.

"I have had an opportunity to see as much of these diseases as anyone I know; besides,
I have lived thirty years in the Mississippi and Brazos bottoms . . ." p. iv. He was also a Galveston physician for many years.

I7

FISHER, CHARLES EDMUND 1853-1932 Queer, quaint old San Antonio, its climate in throat and lung diseases. [St.
Louis? Missouri Pacific Railway] 1895.
Photocopy.

Promotional literature distributed by the Railway to entice visitors to Texas. The author, a San Antonio homeopathic physician, later became nationally recognized in homeopathic circles.

I8

[FORD, JOHN SALMON] 1815-1897 Original pay warrant dated June 7, 1860, for protection of the Texas frontier by the Texas Rangers, signed in ink by
"Rip" Ford and by Sam Houston.

"Rip" Ford was a doctor and a Texas ranger.

I9

FORD, JOHN SALMON 1815-1897 Remarks of Senator Ford and Hon. Ashbel
Smith on the occasion of the presentation of Gen. Rusk's portrait in the House of Representatives of Texas, April 1, 1879.
Galveston, News Steam Book and Job
Printing Establishment, 1879. 8p.

"Rip" Ford and Ashbel Smith, both personal friends of Thomas J. Rusk, give their recollections of Rusk and discuss his career and achievements. Rusk's brother was the great, great grandfather of another, better-known Rusk, U.S. Secretary of State during the Presidential administration of Lyndon B. Johnson.

20

- FORT, JOSEPH MARSTAIN 1828-1906 The Texas doctor and the Arab donkey; or Palestine and Egypt as viewed by modern eyes. Chicago, Donahue and Henneberry, 1892. 700p., illus.
Non-medical book by an East Texas physician.

21

- HACHENBERG, GEORGE P. 1824 {1829?}-1904 Medical consultation book, a pharmacological and clinical book of reference, containing the therapeutics of a full list of the officinal and non-officinal articles of the materia medica, with a consideration of the action of medicine, including an extensive collection of favorite prescriptions from the most reliable authorities of the medical profession, and so classified as to be of ready access for authenticated treatment of each disease, in its different stages and complications etc., etc., etc. Designed for the consultation room. Austin, Texas, von Boeckmann, 1893. 776p.

II Monographs, Pamphlets and Documents Prior to 1900

Dr. Hachenberg was another versatile physician who was interested in many things besides medicine. He was a pioneer in crime detection and in fire prevention methods, and he claimed that Alexander Graham Bell had used his ideas in inventing the telephone.

22

HADRA, BERTHOLD ERNEST 1842-1903 Lesions of the vagina and pelvic floor, with special reference to uterine and vaginal prolapse. With 83 illus. Philadelphia, Records, McMullin and co., 1888. 329p.

Dr. Hadra, a German physician who settled in Texas, received national recognition for corrective procedures described in this book, and is still recognized today for his work in obstetrics and gynecology.

23

JONES, ANSON 1798-1858 "In the name of the Republic of Texas to all to whom these Present shall come, Know ye, I, Anson Jones, President of the Republic of Texas..." (Land grant to Bernard W. Holtzclaw dated October 8, 1845).

Anson Jones was the Physician-President of the Republic of Texas at the time Texas entered the Union.

Metodo preservativo y curativo de la colera morbus epidemica, que la Junta de Sanidad erigida al intento en la capital del Estado, eleva al Gobierno del mismo para su publicacion. [San Luis Potosi, Jose Maria Infante, 1833.] 10p. (Guerra. Iconografia medica mexicana, 808).

About the cholera epidemic of 1833.

25

KING, J. H. T.
-1890

A brief account of the sufferings of a detachment of United States Cavalry from deprivation of water during a period of eighty-six hours while scouting on the Staked Plains of Texas. Fort Davis, Texas, Chas. Krull, Post printer, {1877}. 7p. Photostat.

As a medical report this pamphlet has been reprinted several times in medical journals. As a historical account it has been quoted often by Southwestern historians. It is important history for the Negro on the frontier: the soldiers involved were Negro soldiers. As printing, the pamphlet is unique, only one copy and a variant are known to exist. Who was Charles Krull? And what, if any, was his official position at Fort Davis, in a wild unsettled area of Texas in the 1870's?

26

- LEGER, THEODORE Considerations sur l'endurcissement du tissu cellulaire chez les nouveau-nés. Paris, Didot Le Jeune, 1823. 44p. (Thesis, Faculte de Medecine de Paris. No. 66 v. 179.) Photocopy.

27

- LEGER, THEODORE Essay on the particular influence of prejudices in medicine, over the treatment of the disease most common in Texas, intermittent fever; preceded by a few general observations on medical theories. Brazoria, Texas, People press, 1838. 18p. Photostat. (Streeter 240).
First medical publication in Texas in the English language.

28

- LEGER, THEODORE Manuel des jeunes meres. Paris, Chez Madame Chabouille, Libraire, 1825. 323p.

29

- LOTT, MARTIN K. A chapter on medical ethics, as practiced 1853-1908 by Dr. H. C. Ghent. Belton, Texas {1886}. 14p.
Personal animosities should never be committed to print. They make the reader uncomfortable, especially if both the writer and the subject were influential men.

30

MCLAUGHLIN, JAMES WHARTON 1840-1909 Fermentation, infection, and immunity; a new theory of these processes, which unifies their primary causation and places the explanation of their phenomena in chemistry, biology, and the dynamics of molecular physics. Austin, Texas, E. von Boeckmann, 1892. 240p.

Some of the material was first published in Texas Sanitarian and in Daniel's Texas Medical Journal.

31

MASSIE, J. CAM 1808?- A treatise on the eclectic southern practice of medicine. Philadelphia, Thomas, Cowperthwait and co., 1854. 720p.

The third known medical book in the English language by a Texas doctor. Written for the doctor who wanted some knowledge of practice in Southern climates.

[MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILWAY CO.] Texas. 6th ed. [St. Louis, Woodward & Tiernan Printing Co., 1890]. 93p., map, illus.

Contains "Texas as a resort: the climate of Southwestern Texas, and its advantages as a winter health resort" by M. K. Taylor, M.D., pp. 81-93.

33

- MORRIS, W. A. A review of Dr. Wooten's review of the McLAUGHLIN, J.W. causes that led to the death of the late
AND SWEARINGEN, R. M. Adj. Gen. John B. Jones. Austin, Texas,
E. von Boeckmann, 1882. 44p.
Photocopy.

34

- RACE, CHARLES THOMAS El Paso, Texas, as a health resort. St.
1851-1914 Louis, G. D. Barnard and co., 1884.
16p. Photocopy.

Pamphlets like this one enticed many a sufferer from chronic ailments to Texas, some to recover, some to die far from their original homes.

35

- RADAM, WILLIAM Microbes and the microbe killer. New York, The author, 1890. 369p.

Radam, at one time an Austin gardener, became one of New York's most enterprising quacks.

36

- RANKIN, JOHN DOAK Lectures on miasmatic fevers, and their 1825- complications. 1st ed. Galveston,
Texas, Kay and McKenna, 1873.
240p. Photocopy. (Winkler & Friend 3246).

Written for medical students at the Texas Medical College in Galveston.

37

SENDEJAS, IGNACIO Metodo curativo de la colera morbo, por el ciudadano Ignacio Sendejas boticario y medico encargod del hospital, seminario de esta ciudad, y dado a luz a solicitud y espensas de algunos de sus amigos en obsequio de la humanidad doliente. Monterrey, Agosto 13 de 1833. Reimpreso en Monclova por orden superior, en la imprenta del gobierno dirigida por el ciudadano Sisto Gonzalez {1833}. Broadside. (Streeter 793).

There was an epidemic of cholera in Texas, as well as in Mexico, in 1833. The broadside describes the disease, and gives a recipe for a medicine.

38

SMITH, ASHBEL An account of the yellow fever which appeared in the city of Galveston, Republic of Texas, in the autumn of 1839, with cases and dissections. Galveston, H. Stuart; Houston, Crugar and Moore; Austin, Texas, J. W. Crugar, 1839. 78p. (Streeter 334).

The second medical work in the English language published in Texas. The author's observations were as accurate as they could be before the true cause of yellow fever was discovered. Extremely rare.

SMITH, ASHBEL Yellow fever in Galveston, Republic of 1805-1886 Texas, 1839. An account of the great epidemic . . . together with a biographical sketch by Chauncey D. Leake, and stories of the men who conquered yellow fever.
Austin, University of Texas press, 1951.
135p.

Contains an excellent biography of Dr. Smith, and a reprinting of No. 38.

40

SMITH, ASHBEL The cholera spasmodica, as observed in 1805-1886 Paris in 1832; comprising its symptoms, pathology and treatment; illus. by cases.
New York, P. Hill, 1832. 80p.

As a student in Paris, the author had the opportunity to study the Paris epidemic first-hand.

4I

[SMITH, ASHBEL First semi-annual report of the public 1805-1886] schools of Galveston; together with the report of the Superintendent, (Mr. R. H.
McNair, Jun.). An address on education by Dr. Ashbel Smith, and extracts from the general presentment of the grand jury of Galveston County, at the spring term of the District Court [prepared by Gail Borden]. Galveston. Printed at the News office, 1847. 34p. (Winkler 34).

During his life Ashbel Smith was many things: diplomat, physician, educator, writer, soldier, gentleman farmer. His achievements in all his fields of interest are too numerous to be listed here.

42

SMITH, ASHBEL An oration pronounced before the 1805-1886 Connecticut Alpha of the Phi Beta Kappa at Yale college, New Haven, August 15, 1849. New Haven, B. L. Hamlen,
Printer to Yale college, 1849. 32p.

43

SMITH, THEOBALD Investigations into the nature, causation 1859-1934 and prevention of Texas or southern cattle fever, by T. Smith and F. L. Kilborne.
Washington, Gov't. print. off., 1893.
(U.S. Bureau of Animal industry.
Bulletin No. 1). 301p.

One of the most colorful periods of Texas history is that time following the Civil War when cattle from Texas ranches were driven overland to railway terminals in northern Midwestern states. Dodge City, Kansas was one of the several shipping points from which cattle moved to hungry eastern markets. Texas cattle brought ticks to non-immune cattle in states through which they travelled. Many infected animals died, and local officials made attempts to bar the passage of Texas cattle. Feelings ran high, and perhaps did their part to end cattle-driving days. The disease spread by the cattle tick became known as "Texas" fever. This work is a classic in veterinary medicine.

44

[STRONG, JOHN B.] Early impressions which lead to the discovery of the origin of epidemics. Austin, 1882. 49p.

Ethical physicians had such literature as this (a collected reprint of articles from Texas newspapers) to contend with. The author was opposed to vaccination, and believed that epidemics were caused by racial mixing. An amazing little collection of published quackery.

45

TEXAS STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION Report of the Special Committee on Surgery, presented at the annual meeting at Dallas, April 27, 1886. Committee: E. J. Beall, M.D., A. G. Clopton, M.D., B. F. Eads, M.D., J. M. Pace, M.D., D. F. Stuart, M.D. George Cupples, M.D., Chairman and Reporter. Austin, Warner and Draughon, 1886. 76p.

A highly detailed statistical report on all types of surgical operations performed by Texas surgeons through 1886. The report was issued independent of the Transactions. It was extremely well-received nationally.

TEXAS STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION Annual report of the Special Committee on Surgery, 1887. Committee: E. J. Beall, M.D., A. G. Clopton, M.D., B. F. Eads, M.D., J. M. Pace, M.D., D. F. Stuart, M.D., . . . Compiled and edited by George Cupples, M.D. N.p., 1887.

George Cupples, a transplanted Scotchman, was acclaimed for the organization of the vast amount of material which he handled in these two reports. He should also be remembered as the first surgeon in Texas to use anesthesia: ether in 1848, chloroform in 1850.

47

U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE Preliminary report on the yellow fever epidemic of 1882, in the state of Texas. Washington, 1882. 63p. (At head of title: Treasury dept. Marine hospital service).

Biography and Autobiography

A well-written biography does not always present a completely accurate evaluation of a man's life, but it gives one point of view. Autobiography tells another story. From what a man omits or includes about himself, and from facts which he emphasizes, he gives the reader a different picture, one colored by his personal values and biases.

In addition to biography and autobiography which relate the events of one man's life, the Texas collection contains collective biography — directories, who's whos, county histories, encyclopedias, alumni lists and society membership records.

Some very useful biographical information, not in the Texas collection, can be found in national dictionaries of medical biography such as Kelly and Burrages' Dictionary of American medical biography, and even in such general sources as the Dictionary of American biography. These biographical sources will be found in the library Reference Collection.

BARRETT, THOMAS The great hanging at Gainesville, Cooke 1833-1892 County, Texas, October, A.D. 1862.
Gainesville, Texas, 1885. 34p.
(Reprinted by the Texas Historical Association, 1961).
One of the rarest of Texas Civil War publications. The author, a physician-minister, was an active participant in the events he described.
After the great hanging, he fled to Tennessee in order to save his own life. In 1866 he returned to Gainesville, practiced medicine until 1878, and published his controversial pamphlet in 1885. Only four copies of the original are known to have survived.

- Beales, John Charles, 1804-1878* Comanche bondage: Dr. John Charles RISTER, CARL COKE Beales' settlement of La Villa de Dolores 1889-1955 on Las Moras Creek in Southern Texas of the 1830's; with an annotated reprint of Sarah Ann Horn's narrative of her captivity among the Comanches, her ransom by traders in New Mexico and return via the Santa Fe trail. Glendale, Calif., Arthur H. Clark co., 1955. 210p.

The subject of this biography, a graduate of the Royal College of Surgeons in England, was at one time the largest land owner in Texas. His claims to 70,000,000 acres of Texas land were not recognized by the Republic of Texas, or by the United States Government. Dr. Beales, deprived of a career as colonizer and impresario, left Texas and entered the practice of medicine in New York state.

Texas Medical History

Texas medical history in the Texas collection is varied and provocative. Geographic histories are represented by city, county, and state approaches to medical history. Institutions such as medical schools, hospitals, associations and societies have had their historians. Specialties — surgery, military medicine, public health — these and other subjects have been viewed historically and their achievements recorded. Several manuscripts, containing information difficult to find elsewhere, are included.

General Texas History

Many factors — historic, geographic and ethnic — shaped the Texas character.

Different races — Spanish, French, Indian, Mexican, German and Anglo-American — left their influence on Texas culture.

So did well-defined occupational groups — explorers, traildrivers, ranchers, farmers, rangers, outlaws, oil men, U. S. soldiers in isolated frontier posts, and others.

Physicians have been influenced by these cultural and occupational forces; and the history of Texas medicine shows it.

Texas histories have been selected for the collection to portray the many elements of Texas.

Bibliography

No history collection can be complete without bibliographies. No historian can pursue his studies with confidence unless he knows and uses bibliographies—especially those in his field of interest. The Southwestern Medical School Library provides the historian with necessary Texas bibliographies. Since very little has been published in the field of Texas medical bibliography, the emphasis is on general Texas bibliography, from which the historian must select those sources or specific titles which he needs.

232

- BEXAR COUNTY MEDICAL LIBRARY Sixty-five notable milestones in the history of medicine in the Bexar County Medical Library, compiled by Henry Schuman. With a short account of the Bexar County Medical Library by Pat Ireland Nixon, M.D. [Privately printed]. 1961. 53p.

- EBY, FREDERICK Education in Texas; source materials. 1874- Austin, Texas, The University {1921?}.

963p. (University of Texas bulletin No. 1824: April 25, 1918. Education series, No. 2).

Doctors played a prominent role in developing the state's educational system. Ashbel Smith was a founder and the first chairman of the first Board of Regents of the University of Texas. Others, in lesser capacities, served on school boards of villages and towns, or on committees to draft laws to benefit Texas education. In order to understand the Texas physician and the people served by early Texas physicians, it is important to know something about educational development within the state.
