1965 AND BEYOND

The holiday season brings the end of a truly outstanding year in the history of Southwestern. Our school has begun its march into the front ranks of American medical institutions.

The specifics are easy to detail. What is harder to describe is the enthusiasm, the sense of achieving that permeates the campus. In a quiet and confident manner Southwestern looks forward to the future.

Some of the reasons for the "new look":

- Our fourth year students came out exceptionally well on the National Board exams. This must reflect both an improved quality of our student body and a more successful teaching program.

- Our faculty continues to grow in an amazing manner. It is obvious that Southwestern now competes favorably with any medical school for top-notch teachers.

- Our physical plant has grown impressively, but the plans for our immediate future are truly amazing. Already or soon to be completed are the following: (1) The Skillern Student Center. (2) The Danciger Clinical Research Building. (3) A $7.5 million "renewal" of Parkland Hospital, including complete air-conditioning, addition of three more floors plus expansion of the South wing and more parking space. (4) The Children's Medical Center, a $4 million, 300 plus bed complex being built just behind Parkland. (5) The Presbyterian Hospital to be opened in early 1966. Though not on the campus, a close relationship with the School will provide an important addition to the clinical and teaching facilities.

All this looks great, but look at what the future holds: (1) A $4 million library building. (2) A $4 million basic science building. (Planning for both of these has been approved by the Regents.) (3) An auditorium building. (4) New separate animal quarters. (5) Additional parking spaces. (These and other improvements are being planned after authorization of a Site-Plan by the Regents.) (6) A new $3.5 million TWU College of Nursing complex to be built on the campus near Inwood Road. (7) And even more to come at Parkland.

1965 (Continued)

For all these and even more, we should be thankful - to the Board of Regents, the Legislature, the Dallas County Hospital District and others for their support, to the Dean and the other planners for their farsightedness, to the students, faculty and others who together have brought Southwestern to the horizon of its great future.

ALUMNI NEWS

We note with sadness the death of two alumni. Dr. Robert G. Campbell, '47, was killed in an automobile accident on September 21. Dr. Albert F. Riedel, Jr., '56, was killed in a hunting accident on November 7, 1965.

The Alumni Association is $380 richer from your purchases of the Encyclopedia Britannica. If you are planning on getting a set, please remember to mention Southwestern.

Special appreciation goes to the Alumni in and near Phoenix who showed the true spirit of Southwestern during a recent visit by Dr. Robert Lackey, Professor of Physiology. The group including Rudolph Kirschner, '56, Herbert Dozoretz, '49, James A. Smidt, '55, Robert J. Oursland, '57, Charles E. Strickland, '51, and Phillip Z. Saba, '47, hosted Dr. and Mrs. Lackey to a dinner party.

Joseph M. White, '47, has become Associate Director of the University of Oklahoma Medical Center. He remains Associate Dean of the School of Medicine, but is now responsible for the administration of the entire complex.

Most of our Alumni end up in practice. Here is some news that we have heard from a few:

James A. Gorman, Jr., '54, invites all Alumni to drop in next time you visit Las Vegas. Jim is practicing General and Thoracic Surgery.

Donald Shepherd, '62, has started general practice in Bay City, Texas.

Carolyn Adlof, '55, has moved into a new office in Three Rivers, Texas.

Raymond J. Jerome, '60, has begun the practice of Anesthesiology in Dallas.

George O. Thomasson, '62, has opened his office for general practice in Russellville, Arkansas.

Gilbert S. Santoscoy, '62, has begun his surgical residency at Mayo Clinic.

Wedding bells will soon ring for Phillip E. Whittlessy, Jr., '51, when he marries Dr. Daveen Barksdale on December 27, in Fort Worth.

Let's all meet at the ANNUAL REUNION, March 21, 1966, at the Marriott Motor Hotel on Stemmons Freeway in Dallas.

NEW FACES ON THE FACULTY

The growth of Southwestern is obvious from the outside - steel, cement, and glass rising up along Harry Hines as new buildings reshape the campus into a burgeoning Medical Center.

But even more vital to the development of our school into a truly outstanding one is the growth taking place on the inside - dynamic teaching of an alert student body, productive research along the frontiers of medical progress, meticulous patient-care to alleviate man's suffering. And this growth is wholly dependent upon the growth of the faculty.

The addition of 26 new full-time faculty members during the past year is a striking demonstration of the progress that Southwestern is making "on the inside." The new faculty came from all over the U.S. and five foreign countries. Three are Southwestern graduates. They are spread through almost every department - both basic sciences and clinical.

We are proud to present them to you:

Ebert A. Ashby, Ph.D., (U. of Texas), Assistant Prof. of Anatomy.
Edw. E. Christensen, M.D., (Wisconsin), Assistant Prof. of Radiology.
William A. Cook, M.D., (Wisc.), Asst. Prof. of Cardiovascular Surgery.
Guido Currarino, M.D., (Genova, Italy), Prof. of Radiology.
John T. Davis, M.D., (Texas Medical Branch), Asst. Prof. of Radiology.
Amand Dhariwal, Ph.D., (Illinois), Asst. Prof. of Physiology.
John M. Dietschy, M.D., (Washington), Asst. Prof. of Int. Medicine.
John B. Flume, M.D., (Southwestern), Asst. Prof. of Pathology.
Kenneth L. Ford, M.D., (Southwestern), Instructor in Pathology.
James M. Garvey, M.D., (Buffalo), Assistant Professor of Surgery.
Welton M. Gersony, M.D., (New York), Asst. Prof. of Pediatrics.
H. Stewart Hendrickson, Ph.D., (Illinois), Asst. Prof. of Physiology.
Hugo E. Jasin, M.D., (Buenos Aires), Inst. in Internal Medicine.
Miss JoAnne Kimberlin, M.S.S.W., (U. of Texas), Inst. in Psychiatry.
Nellie R. Luhn, M.D., (Tufts), Associate Prof. of Anesthesiology.
Samuel M. McCann, M.D., (Penn.), Prof. and Ch. of Dept. of Physiology.
Michael C. McNalley, M.D., (Kansas), Instructor in Internal Medicine.
John M. Miller, M.D., (Edinburgh), Instructor in Internal Medicine.
Daniel E. Scott, M.D., (Southwestern), Asst. Prof. of Ob-Gyn.
Raymond U. Seale, Ph.D., (Minnesota), Instructor in Anatomy.
William Shapiro, M.D., (Duke), Asst. Prof. of Internal Medicine.
Wadi Suki, M.D., (Beirut), Instructor in Internal Medicine.
Walter W. Taylor, M.D., (Baylor), Asst. Prof. of Ob-Gyn.
Albert Vaiser, M.D., (San Marcos, Peru), Inst. in Ophthalmology.
Howard G. Worthen, M.D., (Northwestern), Professor of Pediatrics.

No statistic about the growth of Southwestern is more meaningful than one related by Dean Gill at a recent faculty meeting. These 26 new faculty added in 1965 number more than the entire full-time faculty at Southwestern when the school first opened.

CLASS OF '46 AND '56 REUNIONS SET

The annual Spring Dinner-Dance of the Alumni Association will be held Monday evening, March 21, 1966, at the Marriott Motor Hotel. All Alumni are encouraged to attend the affair, held each year at the time of the Dallas Southern Clinical Society Meeting. A tariff of $7.50 will cover food, drinks and dancing.

Once again, special recognition will be given the classes celebrating their 20th and 10th reunion. Plans for the class of 1946 will be handled by class President Don Brown of Dallas and Robert Bone of Corsicana, former president of the Alumni Association.

The Class of 1956 will be handled by Class President Jack Barnett and Peggy Whalley, both of whom remain at the Medical School.

It's a great opportunity to see if what you've been hearing about your classmates is really true. Make plans now. You won't have the chance again for another ten years.
