New book teaches children how to handle situations.

DALLAS--Dr. Mary Ann Shaw, clinical assistant professor of Psychology at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, is author of a new book for children ages 7-12. What Do I Do When?, says the author, is a book designed to help children think about good ways--and not-so-good ways--to handle situations that they may encounter in daily life. These situations range from what to do when someone copies from your paper to what to do when no one picks you for their side in an after school game or ever invites you home to play.

Although Shaw has headed psychology services for Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for 10 years, she says the book is not just for handicapped children but for anyone. The approaches are therapeutic.
