

NEWS RELEASE

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS SOUTHWESTERN MEDICAL SCHOOL AT DALLAS

FRANK CHAPPELL Director of Medical Information

BOB FENLEY Science News Editor

DALLAS -- Bob Fenley, science writer for The University of Texas Southwestern Medical School at Dallas, has been appointed Director of Development for that institution, Dean Charles C. Sprague announced today.

In the new capacity, Fenley will coordinate local support and assist in planning the medical school's next major phase of development, said Dean Sprague. He will report to Dr. P. O'B. Montgomery, Associate Dean.

Fenley joined Southwestern in June after a year as special projects director for Texas A&M University. For 12 years prior to that he was associated with The Dallas Times Herald on various assignments including city hall, rewrite, science and Sunday Magazine.

In addition, he has worked for The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, The Denton Record-Chronicle and The Pryor, Okla., Times-Democrat.

more

first add Fenley

While with The Times Herald, Fenley covered such events as the assassination of President Kennedy, the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald and the trial of Jack Ruby, the orbital flight of Astronaut John Glenn, and Hurricane Carla. He also wrote for TIME magazine and The London Daily Mirror.

Fenley is a member of the National Association of Science Writers and his work has been cited by the Southwest Journalism Forum, the American College Public Relations Association, and others.

Reared on a farm in western Oklahoma, he attended Tipton, Okla., schools and the University of Oklahoma.

He and his wife and two daughters live at 3546 Binkley.

December 16, 1968

#