Joan Reisch, PhD

Professor of Clinical Sciences & Family and Community Medicine

John Z. Sadler, MD

The Daniel W. Foster, MD Professor of Medical Ethics & Professor of Psychiatry

J. Gregory Wright, AAS, BS, MCM, CIP

Manager, Institutional Review Board

UT Southwestern Medical Center

The nationally-publicized Markingson case from the University of Minnesota involved a tragic suicide in the context of a university-based, industry-sponsored clinical trial. A panel of UT Southwestern faculty and staff consider the lessons emerging from the Markingson case, identify areas of risk and opportunities for prevention, and map the multiple layers of policy and practice that could prevent such events in the future.
