UT SOUTHWESTERN PUBLICATIONS AVAILABLE ON WORLD WIDE WEB

DALLAS — December 18, 1995 — News releases, campus maps and other information about UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas are now available via the World Wide Web home page of the news and publications offices at <http://www.swmed.edu/news/newspubs.htm>.

"The Internet and World Wide Web are increasingly important resources for journalists and consumers interested in health and science information, so it is important for UT Southwestern to have a strong presence there," said Roy E. Bode, vice president for public affairs. The home pages of UT Southwestern academic departments, faculty, staff and students with web sites may be accessed through the main UT Southwestern home page (<http://www.swmed.edu>).

News releases are posted on the news and publications page at the same time they are mailed to members of the news media. The releases include a hypertext link with the news and publications staff that allows journalists to reach the public information office directly via the Internet. Where possible, the release will include a link to other relevant publications or departments at UT Southwestern.

Information available on the news and publications page includes detailed campus maps, the official UT Southwestern fact book, contacts for news media, consumer health news and the grand rounds calendar for physicians.
