DALLAS--Mrs. Marilyn Haschke, chairman of the Department of Nutrition and Dietetics in the School of Allied Health Professions at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, is the new president of the Texas Dietetic Association.

Mrs. Haschke, who also is dietetic internship director for the Dallas County Hospital District, took office for a one-year term as head of the association during a recent meeting of its executive board held at the Executive Inn in Dallas. She had been named president-elect at a general membership meeting in Lubbock last year.

The 1,000-member Texas Dietetic Association is made up of college teachers, dieticians and nutritionists in hospitals, industry, school food service and community nutrition programs.

Mrs. Haschke began her work in dietetics education in 1964 at Dallas' Baylor University Medical Center. She was educational director of dietetics at Baylor from 1966 to 1969.

A native of Shreveport, La., she holds a B.S. degree from Texas Tech University and an M.S. degree in nutrition from Iowa State University. She also completed a nutrition internship and did graduate study at the University of Iowa Medical School.

Mrs. Haschke is active in the Dietetic Internship Council of the American Dietetic Association, and is a member of the Texas State Nutrition Council and the Society for Nutrition Education.
