

After, he was never the same again. She, never the same. Each weaker, together had grown stronger. A phoenix from the ashes, better and brighter without the toils of a previous life. Unforgettable, transition never quite complete. The eyes belie confident sadness, ever weighing the cost of transcendence achieved.