

News

Office of Medical Information
The University of Texas

Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas

February 21, 1991

CONTACT: Shanna Swendson
Office: 214/688-3404
Home: 214/513-0413

****Medical student variety show
to benefit poison center

DALLAS -- A variety show benefiting the North Central Texas Poison Center, produced by second-year medical students at Southwestern Medical School, will be held Friday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Gooch Auditorium at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas, 5323 Harry Hines Blvd.

The annual show features UT Southwestern students, faculty and staff, as well as employees from Parkland Memorial Hospital, Children's Medical Center of Dallas and Zale Lipshy University Hospital. Acts include a rap by the group "Young M.D. and the Posse," poetry readings, classical piano performances, the UT Southwestern Men's Dance Troupe, a jazz trio and comedy routines. Tickets are $3 in advance and $4 at the door. Advance tickets may be ordered by calling Page Patton at 590-0513. Refreshments will be available at intermission.

###

NOTE: The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas comprises Southwestern Medical School, Southwestern Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences and Southwestern Allied Health Sciences School.